Advancing toward greater ideals . . .

In addition to the usual scholastic routine, East High provides many fascinating adventures to the students who assemble in class rooms, laboratories and libraries.

Shady walks invite congenial moods . . .

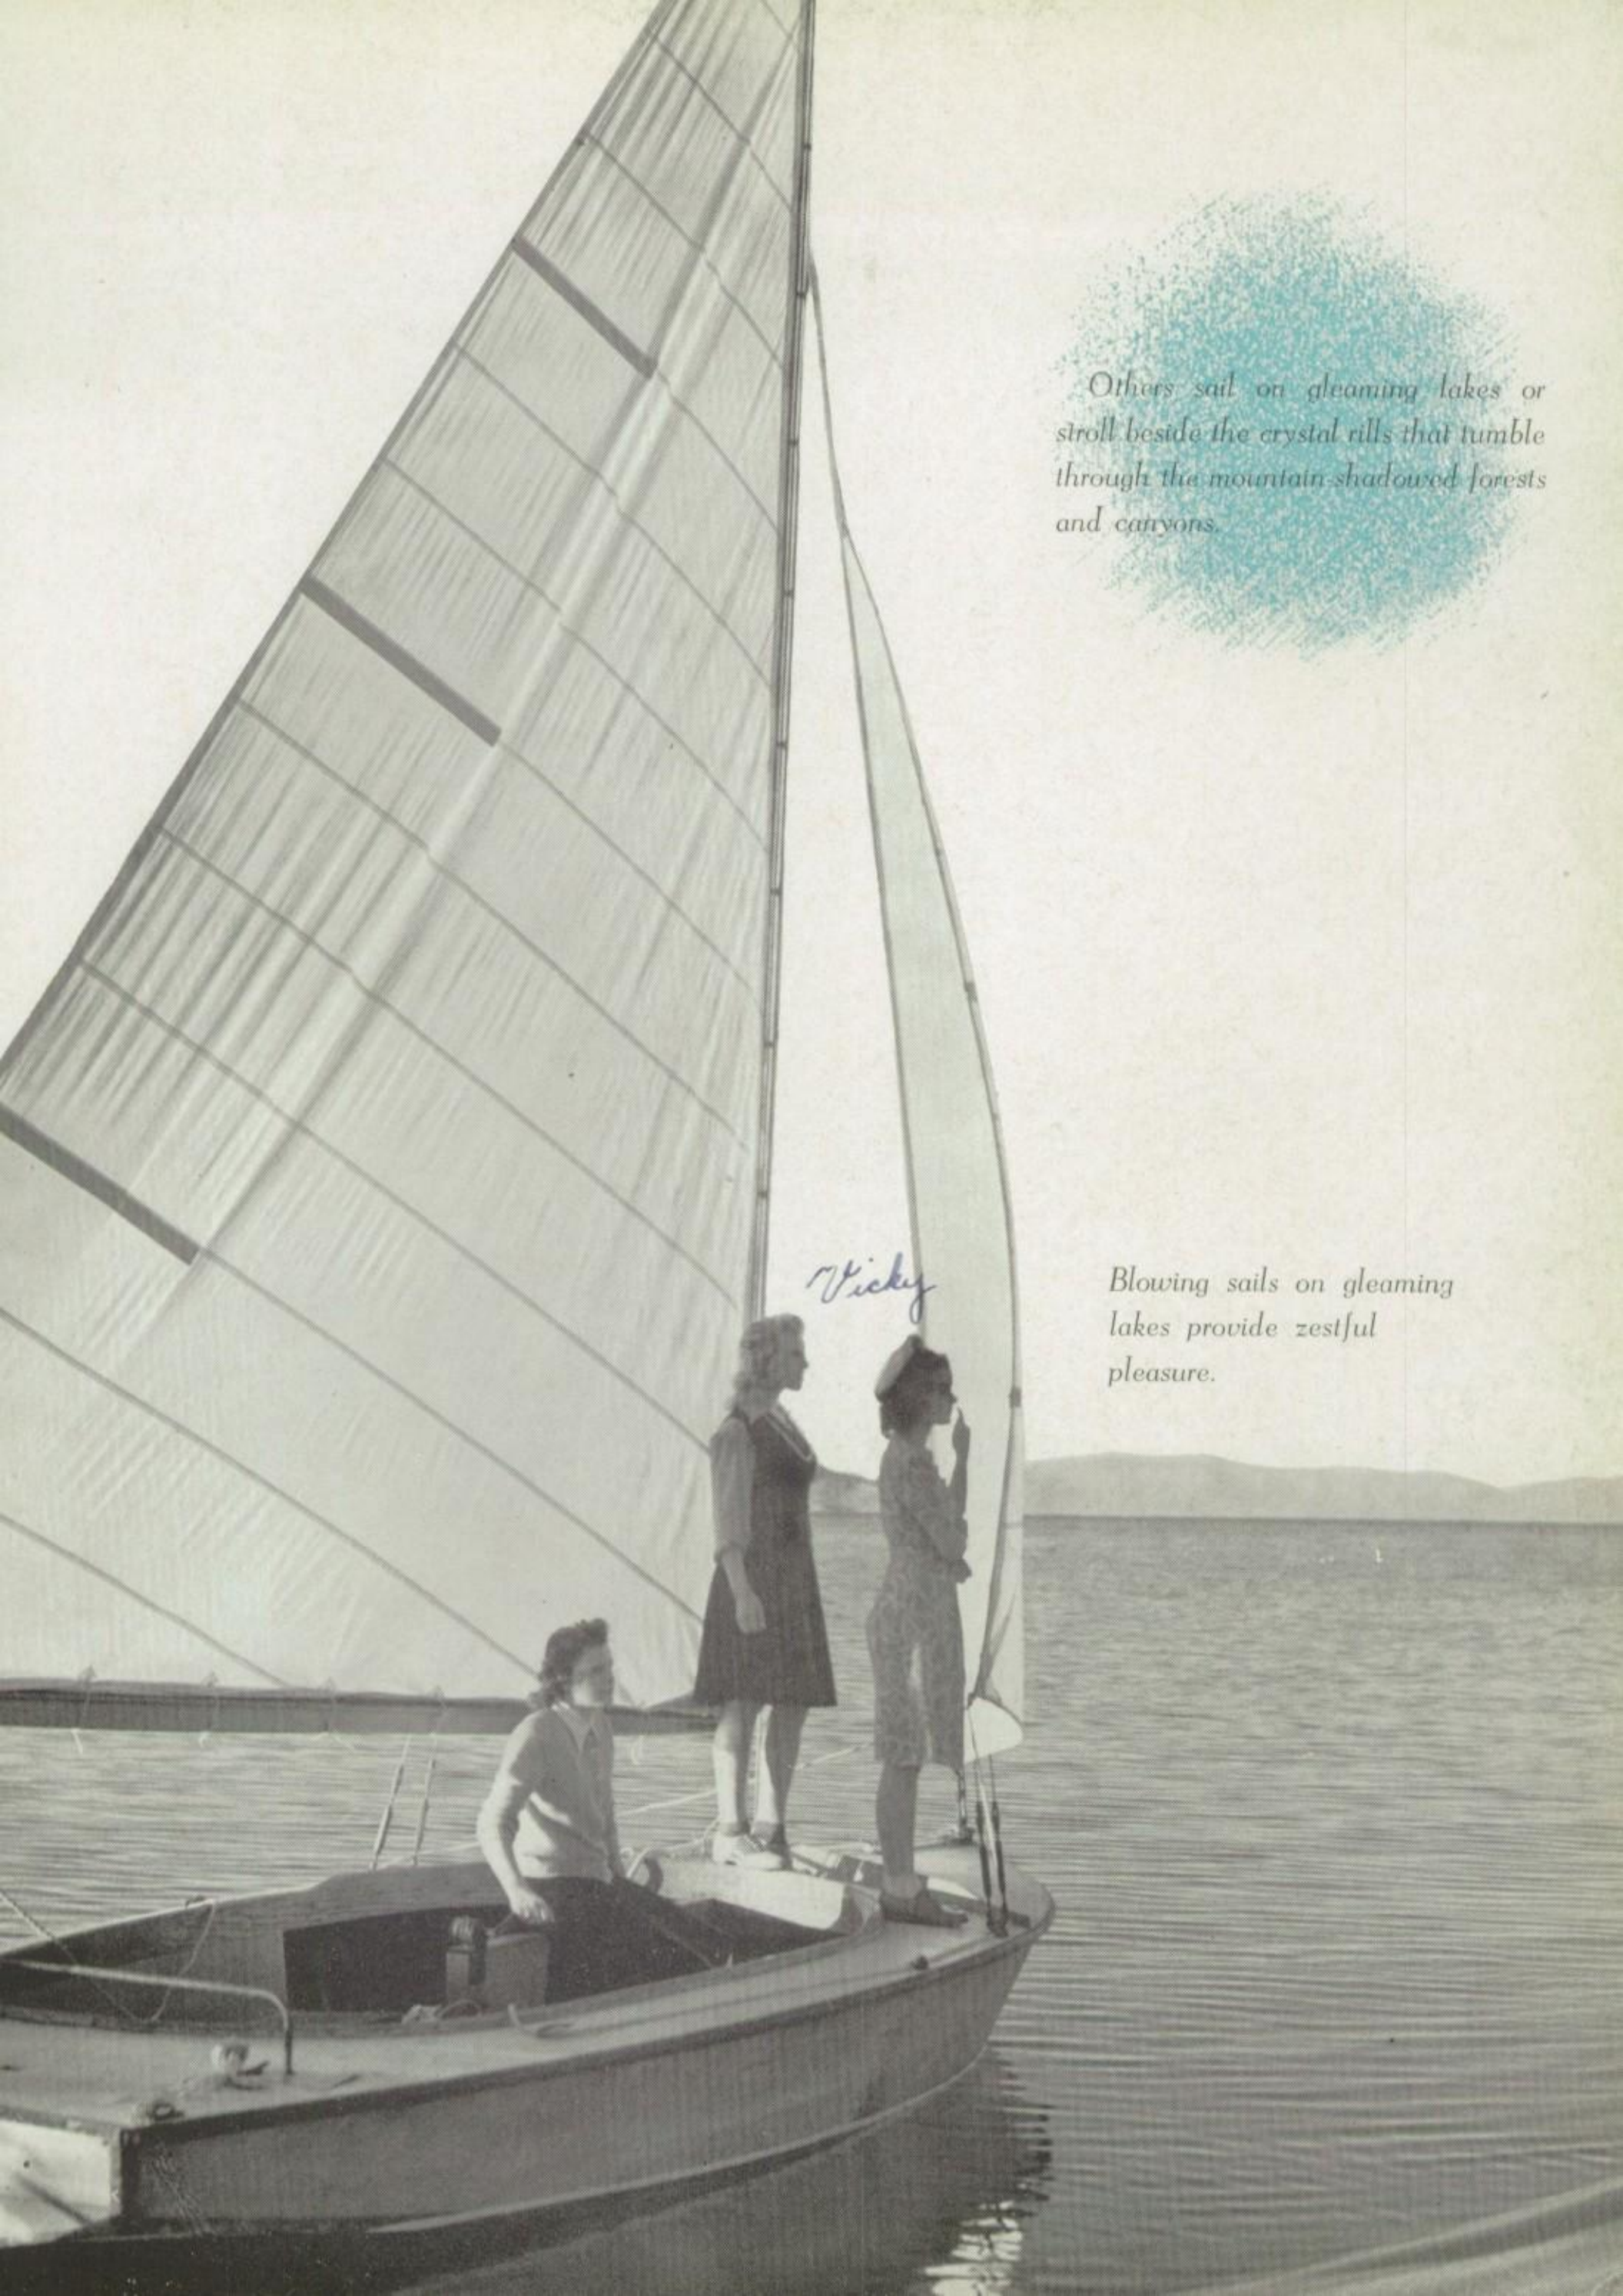

Pat Vickers

Gazing thoughtfully enshrouded by nature's grandure.

The juniors feeling mystified and abandoned in its spacious hallways assemble together on the front steps or in neighboring soda fountains.

The seniors contented with the fantasies of nature relax under the shady maples . . . or while away their leisure hours on snow capped mountains or icy streams.

Others sail on gleaming lakes or stroll beside the crystal rills that tumble through the mountain-shadowed forests and canyons.

Blowing sails on gleaming lakes provide zestful pleasure.

Warm autumn sunshine induces a more thoughtful reading of books.

But they all love the magnificence of their school. They love its solemn dignity in the light of the early morning . . . they love it when it gleams in the brilliant noon day sun . . . and they love it when grey misty shadows are cast against its majestic walls.

They Point

Superintendent

DR. L. JOHN NUTTALL

Heading the organization which controls the administration and policies of our public school system, Dr. Nuttall has again successfully guided the destinies of our educational program.

The Way

Asst. Superintendent

DR. J. T. WORLTON

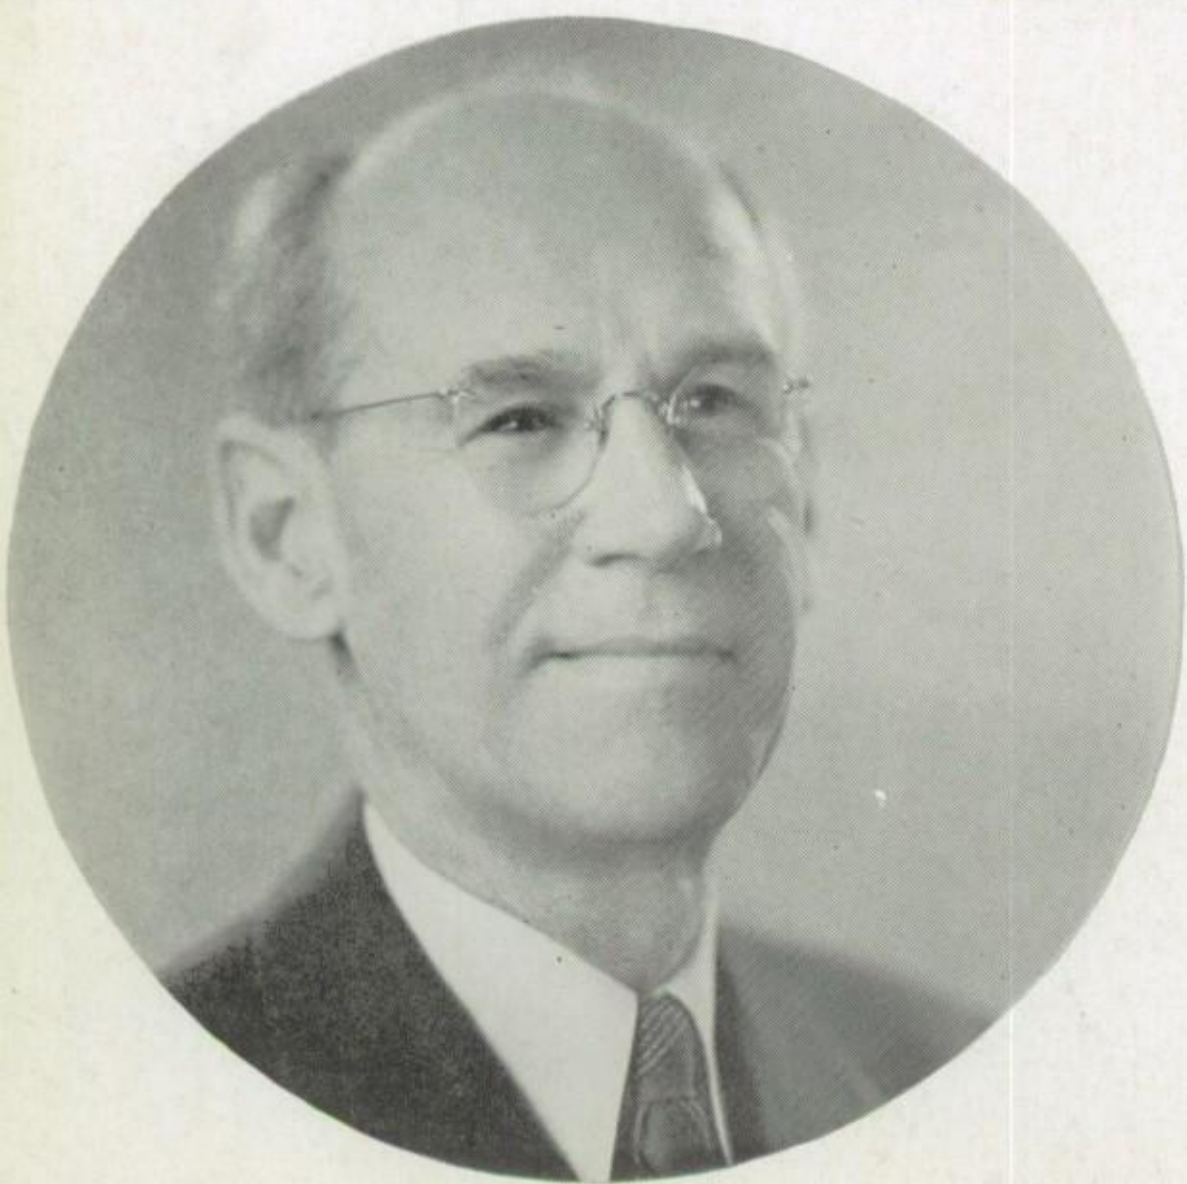

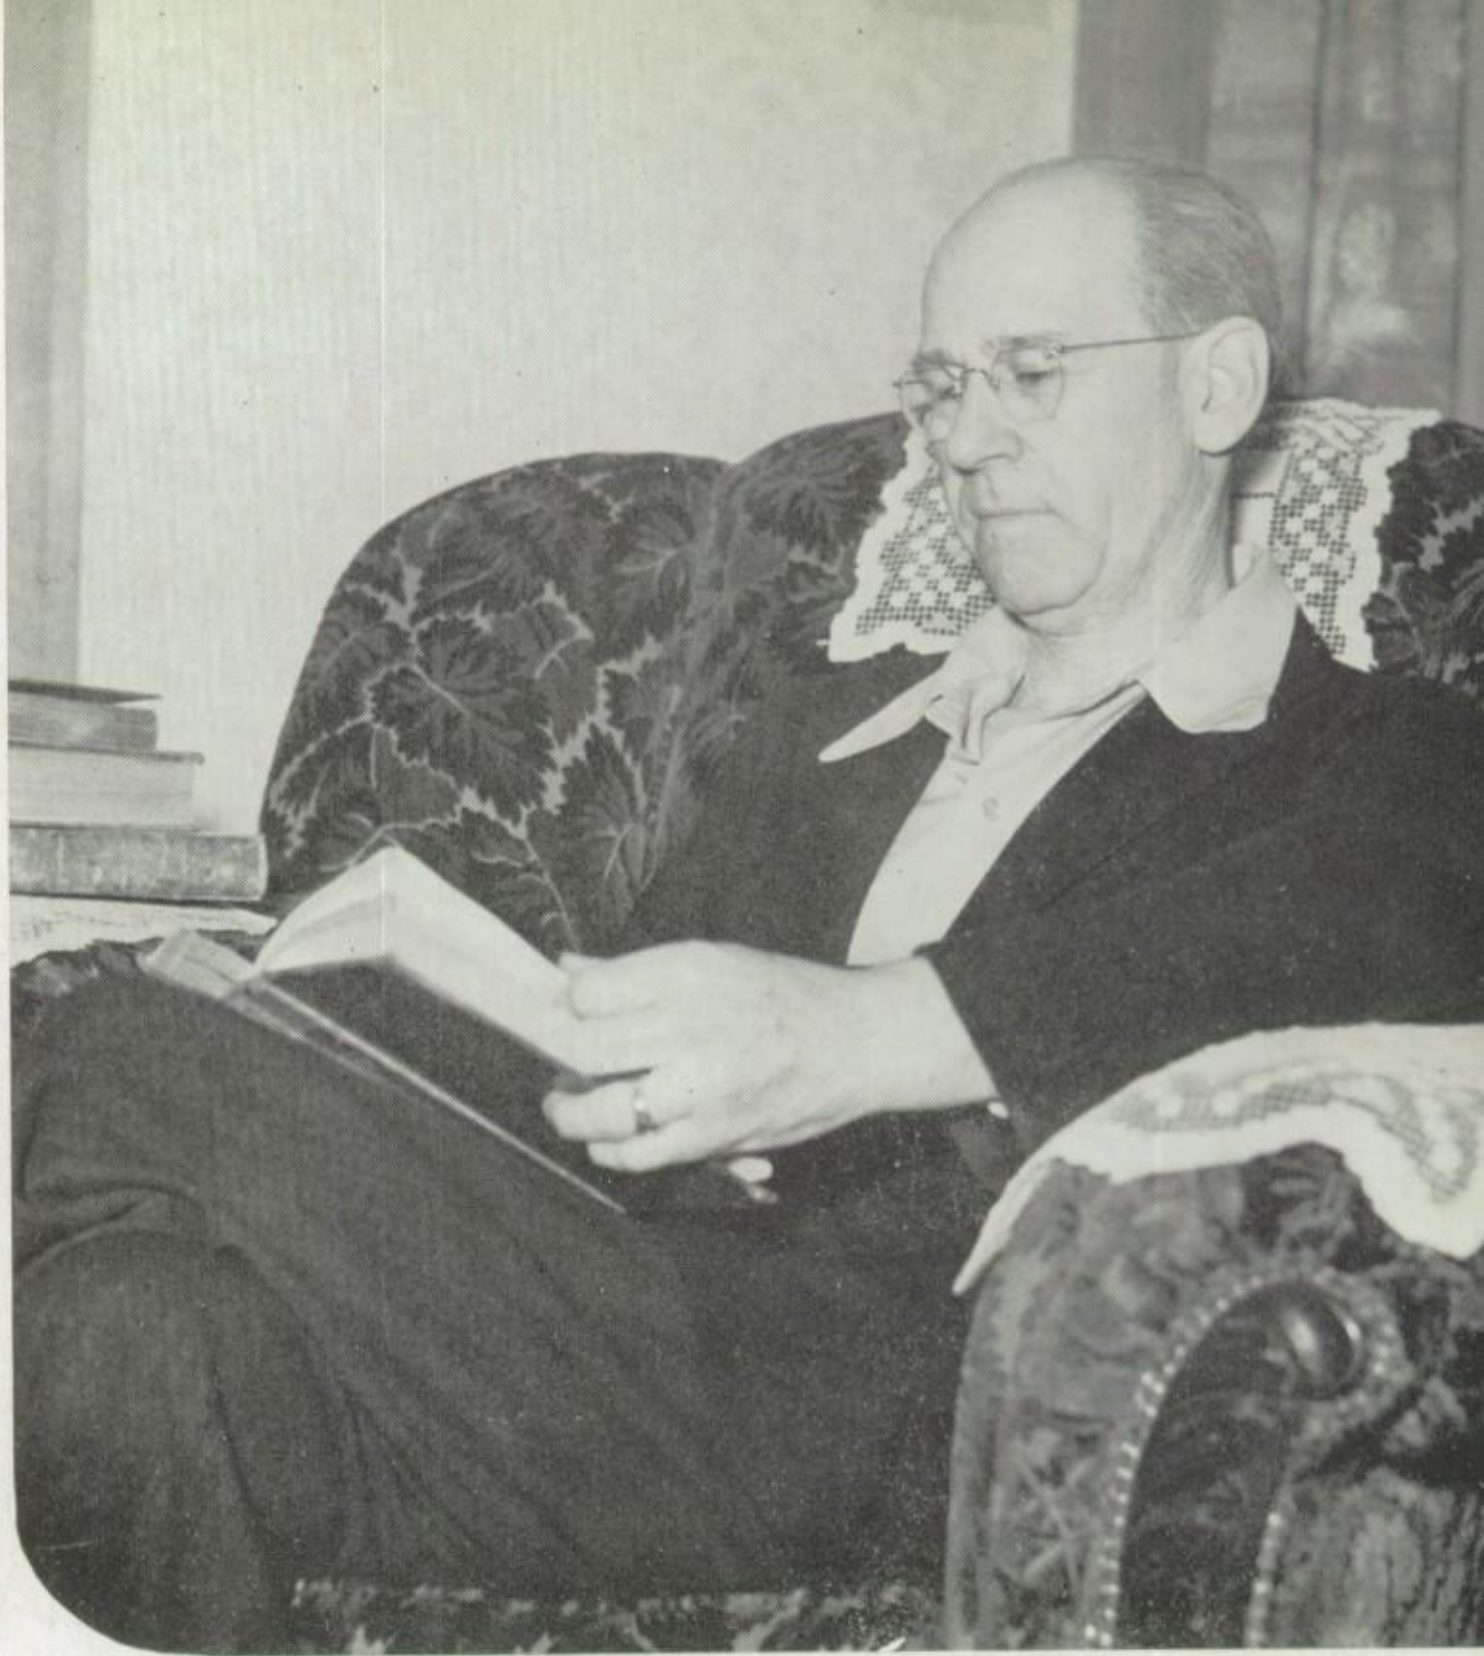

As assistant superintendent of the Salt Lake City Schools, Dr. Worlton has devoted much of his valuable time and wisdom to student needs.

Asst. Superintendent

EARNEST M. HANSEN

Working in close accord with Dr. Nuttall and Dr. Worlton, Mr. Hansen has instituted many reforms for the betterment of our educational program.

Principal

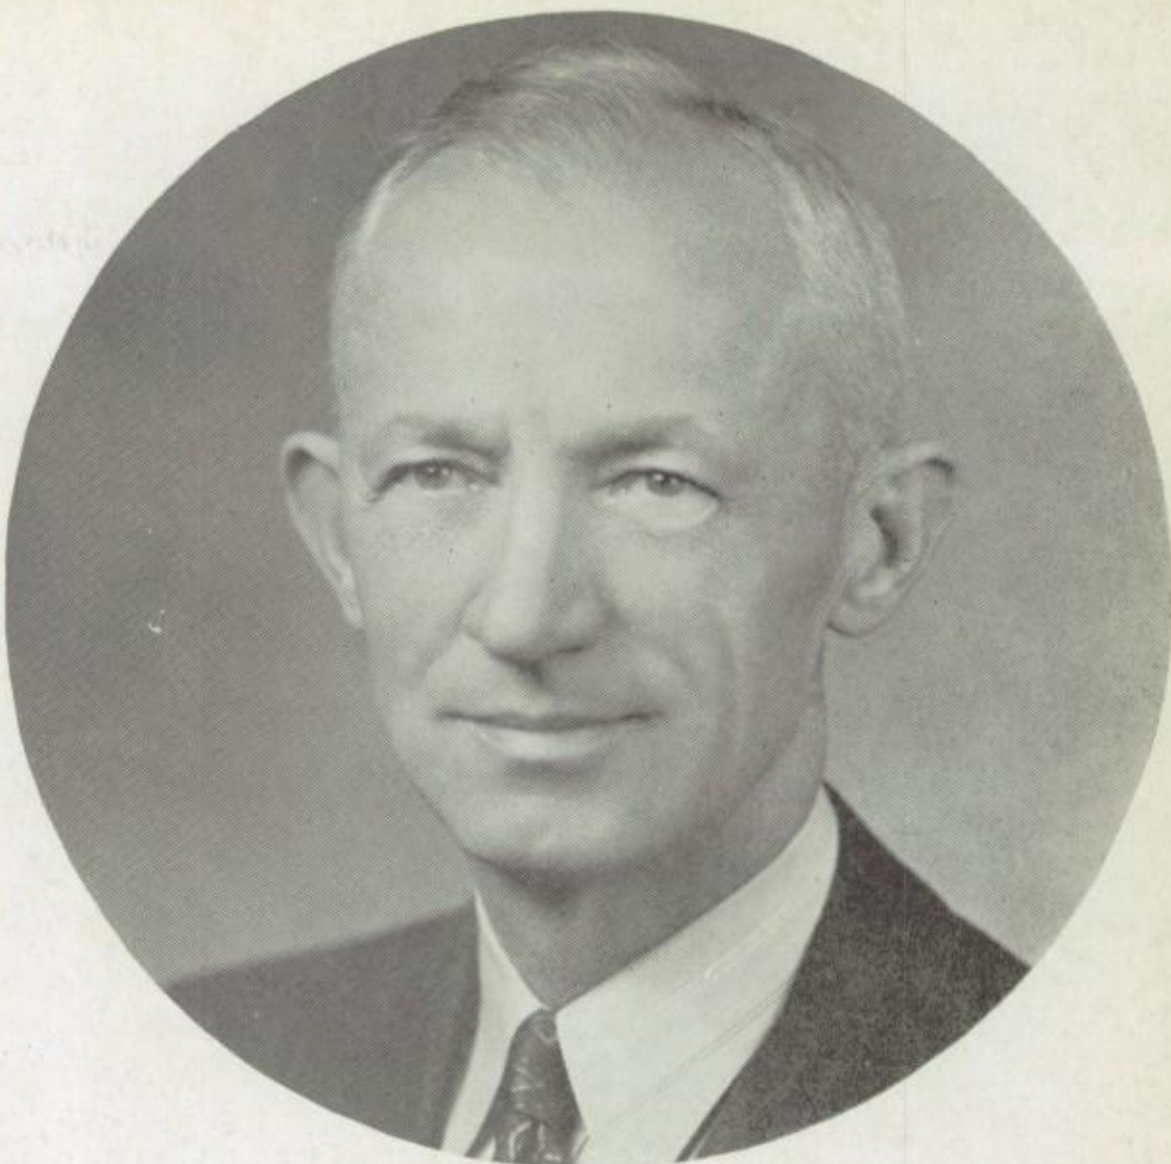

BRUCE E. MILLIKIN

As principal of East High, Mr. Millikin has entrusted to him the sometimes thankless task of disciplining the wayward students and the inspiring of the ambitious ones to develop their fullest possibilities. With quiet dignified competence he has fulfilled his position well.

Vice Principal

C. OREN WILSON

Because of his sympathetic understanding of student affairs, Mr. Wilson is always ready to lend his aid, whether it is for more self-government in "boosters" or leading a "defeated eleven" off the gridiron. Through this respect Mr. Wilson has won the admiration of every student and proven his worthiness as vice principal of East.

Dean of Boys

MAJOR GARFF

A newcomer to the school, Mr. Garff has discharged his responsibilities in an enviable manner. With wisdom and tact he has sincerely tried to help the boys with their many perplexing problems.

Dean of Girls

MAY K. BAER

Through her wholehearted and unselfish interest, and because of her loyal devotion to East High, Mrs. Baer has won the respect of every student.

TION AND GLORY

McKINLEY OSWALD

"Mick", as he is more usually called, enjoyed another of his long string of successful seasons as dean of East High athletic teams.

Led by his mighty "A" football squad, the Leopards rolled to a tie for the City Championship. This marked the ninth consecutive year East grid teams have reigned supreme. More than any other person, Coach Oswald was responsible for this remarkable record. Well-liked and respected, "Mick" is a willing worker and admired by every East High Student.

Coaches...

MARVIN PUGH

Given the toughest assignment of all, "Marv" came through with flying colors. Last September he took a squad of inexperienced beginners and molded them into one of the finest "B" teams in the history of East. Likeable and popular, Marv is typical of the fighting spirit of East High teams.

HAROLD JOHNSON

Dividing his time between the physics lab and the athletic field, "Johns" coached the "C" football and "B" basketball squads in addition to aiding track and tennis hopefuls. "Johns" is held high in the esteem of East High students.

Athletic Managers

In the forming of athletic teams, someone must perform the job of handling all the equipment. This is no easy task, and requires plenty of responsibility. These three fellows, Iverson, Jackson, and Harries did everything imaginable, from issuing uniforms to taping sprained wrists and ankles. They sent the East High athletes into the game ready for action by quickly performing any and all duties requested of them.

No matter how successful the various teams were, a lot of credit must be given to the athletic managers for keeping the uniforms and equipment in tip-top shape.

Cheer Leaders

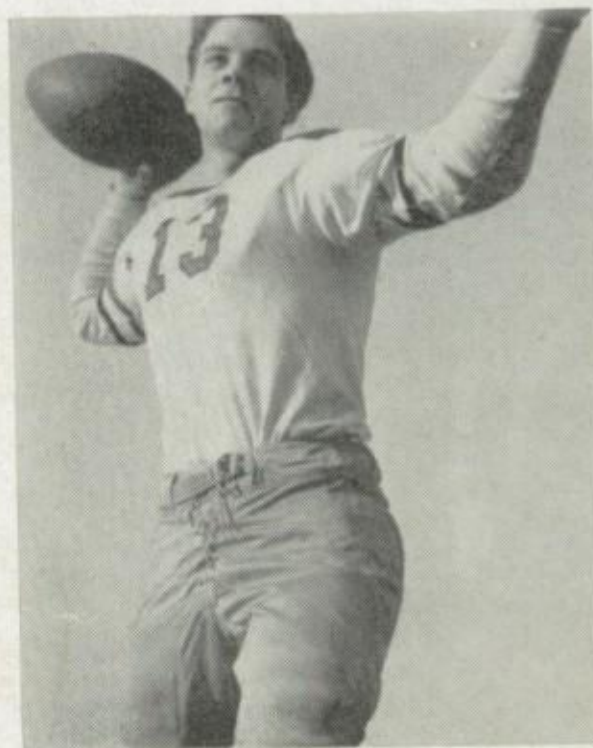

Decked in bright new red and black uniforms, these cheerleaders not only aroused spirit at games, but they kept it at a peak till the final gun.

After tryouts, Betty Mae Barton, Warren Stack, and Jerry Lobb were elected by the students to lead the cheering. They kept the spectators' attention by their acrobatic antics.

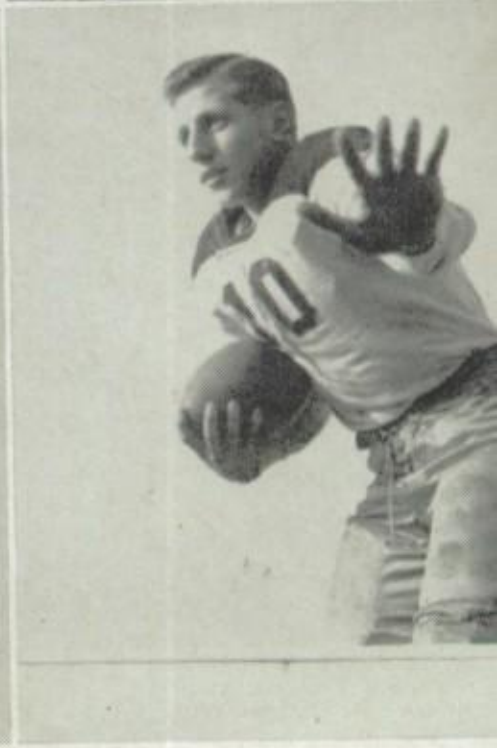

East High's mighty "A" team enjoyed one of its most outstanding seasons in every sense of the word. Not only did the Leopards gain a tie for the City Championship, but they celebrated East's return to state athletic competition by defeating Granite and Carbon, two of the state's strong prep teams. Then, to top it off, the McKinley High School squad of Honolulu, Hawaii travelled to Salt Lake for a colorful intersectional contest with East.

To open the season the Leopards trounced Granite High 19-6 in a game played on the Farmers' gridiron. This marked a renewal of football rivalry between the two schools, which had been discontinued in 1933. East outplayed Granite throughout the contest, scoring touchdowns in each of the first three periods.

The great climax of this season came with the big game between the Leopards and McKinley. The East High "B" Team, composed only of boys in their first year at East, proved to be the principal factor in the winning of a share of the City Football Championship. Not only were they undefeated in conference play, but only once was their goal line crossed. Dominated by a rugged line and fast backs, the Leopard Juniors ran up a total of eleven touchdowns in only four games.

This team, coached by Mr. Pugh, was the outstanding eleven in the city. Also, they proved valuable in furnishing opposition to the "A" team during practice in order that each could improve their weak points.

Opening their schedule with an impressive 28-0 win over South "B", the Leopards continued to outclass all opponents. After two more victories over West and South. The Hilltoppers met tough opposition in the return encounter with the Panther "B" eleven. Displaying the typical East High Fighting spirit in this game, the Leopard "B" tripped West 7-6 to close a successful season.

The "C" squad was certainly the "hard-luck team" of the year. Their ability was never doubted as proved in their 40-0 victory over West in the second game. But for some reason, the Leopard midgets could never cross the pay-off stripe at the right time. Outgaining their opponents in midfield, they would venture deep into enemy territory only to lose the ball.

Never did they stop fighting, however, and only after a tough battle did the Cub and Panther "C" elevens conceive victory.

In the initial contest against South "C", the two teams fought on even terms until late in the final quarter, when a costly fumble resulted in South's 13-6 win. The Eciders really clicked in their second game, as they downed West "C" 40-0. Aided by perfect blocking, fullback Lyman Kearns scored four touchdowns in this game and the East midgets looked like champions. However, in the two final encounters, the Leopards suffered close defeats.

The all-city representatives from the East "C" squad were Lyman Kearns and Preston Glade in the backfield, and lineman Bob Erickson, Dick Thorpe, Harris Cairo, Huddy Tomomatsu, and Hy Gentner. Other "C" team starters who deserve credit were Ray Langston, Dale Thompson, Dick Nelson, Hal Adair, Dick Smith, and Dick Dowell.

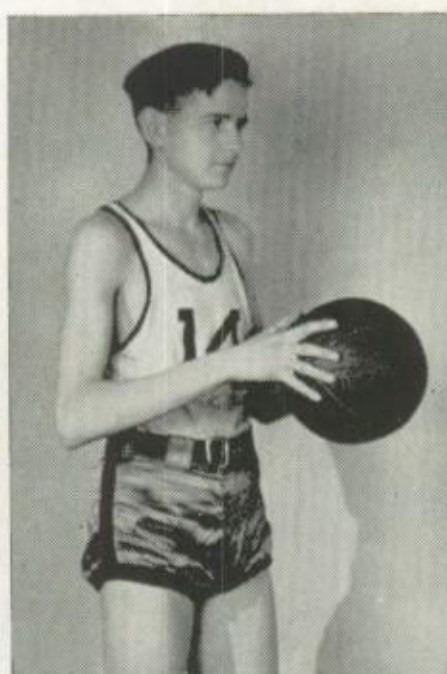

Leopard midgets close in on Stan Clawson, South back, in opening game. The Cubs tipped East "C" 13-6 in a close contest.

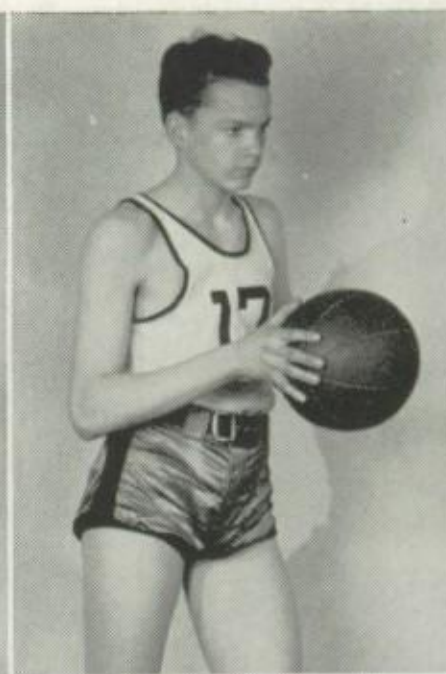

The East "A" basketball season might be summarized as one with its "ups and downs". When the team started clicking, the points through the hoop would multiply like magic. An example was the first West game in which the Leopards trounced the Panthers 31-12, and held them to only one field goal in the whole second half.

In City competition an even break was gained, with the losses coming at the hands of South. The opening contest against the Cubs found East starting slow. Not until the final period did the Leopards find the range, and then they displayed their real ability by scoring nineteen points in only eight minutes. The rally came too late, though, and Lacking the necessary experience the East "B" team managed to win only one of its four "Big 3" games. The victory came in the first East-West encounter in which the Leopards came out on the long end of a 26-21 score. The East "C" basketball team compiled an even record of two victories and two defeats in league play. Both wins were rung up over the West midgets while the powerful Cub "C" cagers forced the Leopards to bite the dust twice.

The squad displayed plenty of spirit, and at times showed remarkable scoring punch. The two main Leopard threats throughout the season were Blair Egli and Ray Langston. Other starters included Huddy Tomomatsu, Dick Dowell and Keith Ellertson.

Baseball

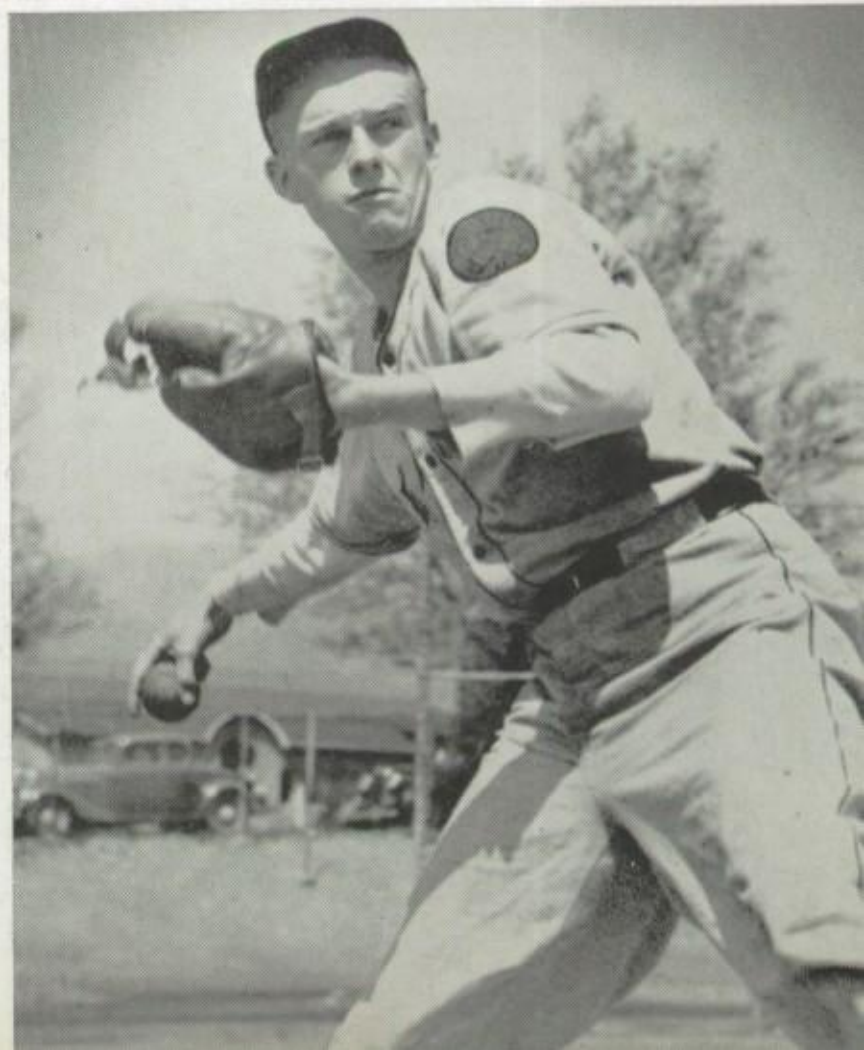

Handicapped by the loss of many veterans, the East baseball squad lacked the necessary material for a successful season. The Leopards lost two games to South and West, and suffered defeats in other contests against Bingham and Provo. Coach Oswald fielded a smooth working infield and power at the plate, but experienced men were missing in other key positions.

Ray Langston hits the dirt for a stolen base.

Jack Harrington was outstanding on the mound.

With an abundance of talent, the East track squad is ranked a favorite with South to triumph in the annual triangular meet. In the dual contest, the two schools fought on even terms until the Cubs won the final relay to forge ahead 64-57. The Leopards easily defeated West 89-34.

Track

Ralph Hall was consistently the outstanding Performer in every meet. He won the B.Y.U. All-Around Championship for the second consecutive year. Other Leopard points come from Herb Wilkinson in pole vault, Lyman Kearns in the broad jump, Cal Erickson in the 880 run.

Wilkinson, vaulter, sails easily over the bar.

Hurdler stretches as he leaps.

Tennis

Continuing a long record of tennis championships, East High netters again reigned supreme, not only in city competition but in the state as well.

Mac Pyke, representing East in the singles, and the team of Burt and Ellertson holding down the doubles competition, defeated all opposition to carry the Red and Black to the top.

In the "Big Three" East won handily, defeating South and West by scores of 3-0, 3-0. Pyke and Burt played singles, while Lence and Ellertson comprised the doubles team. In "B" team competition, East was represented by Craig Ward, Dick Movitz, McGillis, and Frank Pyke. These junior netters defeated South and West.

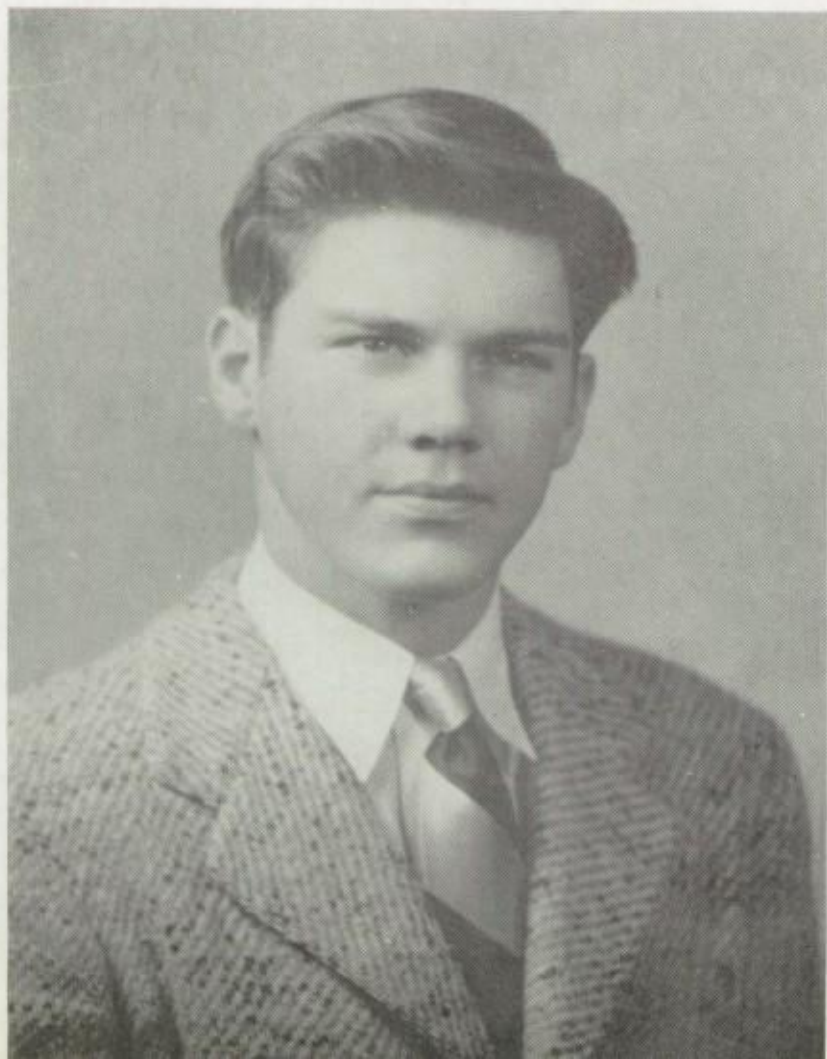

Intramural Champs

A fighting "Faculty Five" triumphed over all student entries in the annual school basketball Intramurals.

Led by Coach Johnson and Dean Graff, the teachers walloped a "Red and Black" team 38-26 in the final round. Other Faculty players included Mick Oswald, Marv Pugh, Keith Oakes, Milner Dunn.

Twenty teams entered the meet to make it the largest in history.

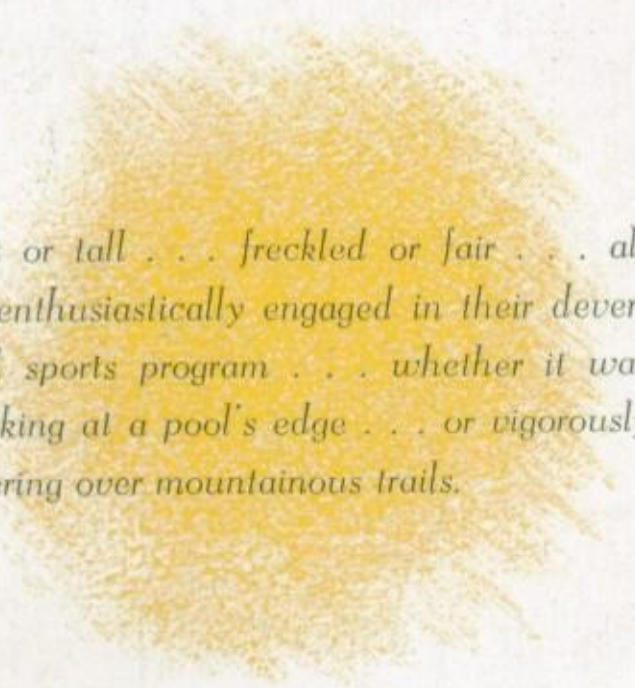

KEITH WARSAW, one of East's outstanding athletes, suffered a great misfortune in the form of a long illness.

In his junior year at East, Keith starred in "B" football and basketball. He was elected to the post of president of the A. B. of E. this year, but was unable to fulfill it.

We sincerely wish Keith the best of luck, a full recovery, and hope for his return to East next fall.

FOR THAT

Short or tall . . . freckled or fair . . . all girls enthusiastically engaged in their diversified sports program . . . whether it was frolicking at a pool's edge . . . or vigorously cantering over mountainous trails.

TRIM FIGURE

Horses bridled, Canter Club members start out on a brisk morning jaunt.

Canter Club

Love of the horse and of horsemanship have been the motives for the great enthusiasm of all Canter Club members. With constructive criticism given each week by the Club's very capable sponsor, East's equestrians have learned well the techniques of handling a horse correctly. Club members tie back their hair, don levis, and sally forth with their hearts in their throats hoping they won't fall off and maybe not get quite so stiff. Learning to ride without stirrups, sit a trot, post, canter with the horse, are some of the many things Miss Bernice Thomas attempted to teach the girls.

Members halt for a brief moment to revere to the sun's radiance.

After a year of practice, the Canter Club presented a very successful horse show in the spring. At this show the girls competed for various ribbons and were chosen entirely on their horsemanship and not upon the horse they were riding. Today, able to mount the fastest most spirited horses, these equestrians ride with the grace and dignity which they acquired from the Canter Club.

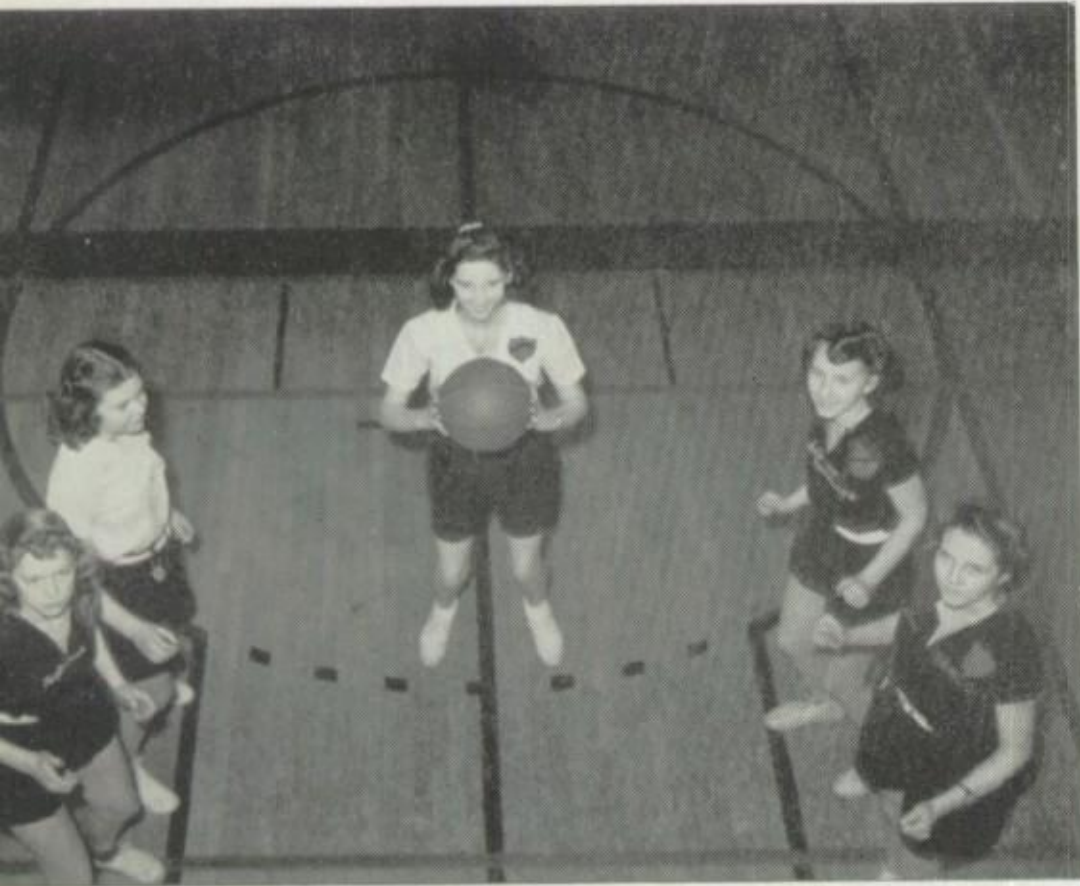

Scenic grandeur adds contentment to a lazy morning ride.

A swift canter to the stables brings this Canter Club excursion to an enjoyable climax.

Leaders Club...

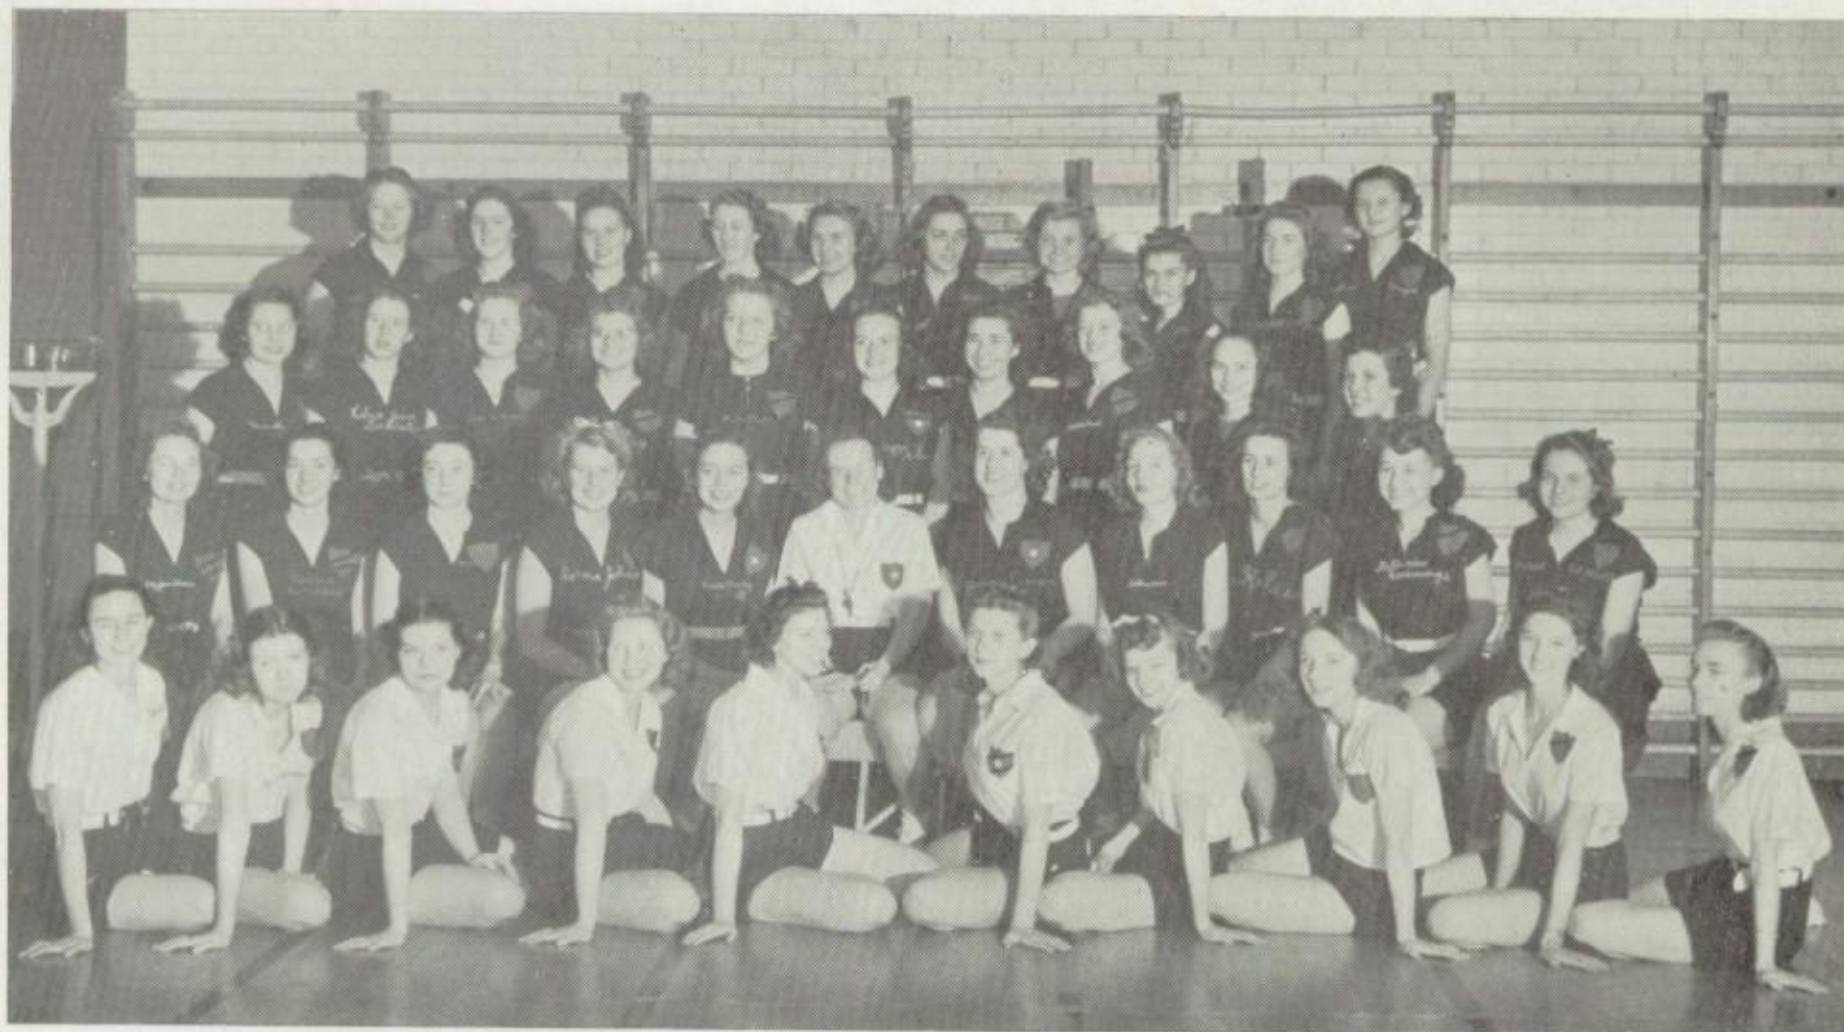

Taking accurate aim Dorothy Anderson attempts to sink a basket.

Leadership, scholarship, and sportsmanship are the three ships that the Leaders' Club has sailed on this year, and they have guided their ships very well. To stimulate an interest in girls' sports the club has sponsored numerous tournaments of all kinds for the benefit of all the girls and the enthusiastic response of the girls was enlightening to say the least. Distinguished by their red shields on merit, the Leaders have proved to be a great asset to the gym teachers also. Many times their sportsmanship has settled aggravating quarrels. Many informal get-togethers have been held but that of most importance was an autumn sports frolic at which East High Leaders acted as hostesses to the South and West Clubs.

Requiring quick thinking and agile movement volleyball is a favorite among the girls.

At this party the girls engaged in hockey, tennis, speedball, badminton and many other sports. Well handled and presented from beginning to end, this party brought about closer cooperation and relationship among the high schools. Many other constructive activities have taken place during the year and as it draws to a close the girls can look back proudly at their achievements and be glad of the membership in the Leader's Club.

Protected from flying hockey sticks all girls engage actively in this sport.

Under the watchful supervision of Vice-President Nonie Nelson, President Mary Beth Wheeler, and Treasurer Beverly Flandro, Rosemary Bennett, Secretary gets a thorough "going over."

Learning to drive the ball right over in the corner or to lob occasionally, a huge tennis club has spent a profitable year. Engaging in difficult competition the youthful tennis enthusiasts have really acquired improved fundamentals. Learning the correct grip and stroke for a graceful tennis technique with good form, the girls have slaved long hours in the scorching sun but have been well rewarded for their ardent efforts. Besides actual tennis technique, they have learned cooperation of the best kind in their playing of doubles. As tennis is, and has been for a long time, a very popular sport for these students; they will realize how much their club really meant to them and how educational as well as fun it was.

Tennis...

Golf...

With a keen desire for mastering this fascinating sport, golf enthusiasts have worked hard for a good technique this year. Ably supervised by professional golfer Tom McHugh, they have really learned the "in's and out's" of golf and their club is rising each year in popularity. Because golf is definitely a spring and summer sport, the feminine golfers were forced to spend the winter months indoors but spent them profitably learning the proper grip, swing, and posture not to mention accurate footing. As spring arrived they eagerly took their newly acquired skills outdoors and enjoyed themselves in the warm sunshine. With ambitions to master the technique of golf, these same girls will go into the future and always be glad of their golf training in East's golf club.

Sponsor, Miss Areta Benson instructs officers, Lois Kelsey, Afton Bradford, and Janice McCune on proper stance and grip.

Learning the techniques of first aid, the club members are well trained for any emergency.

First Aid...

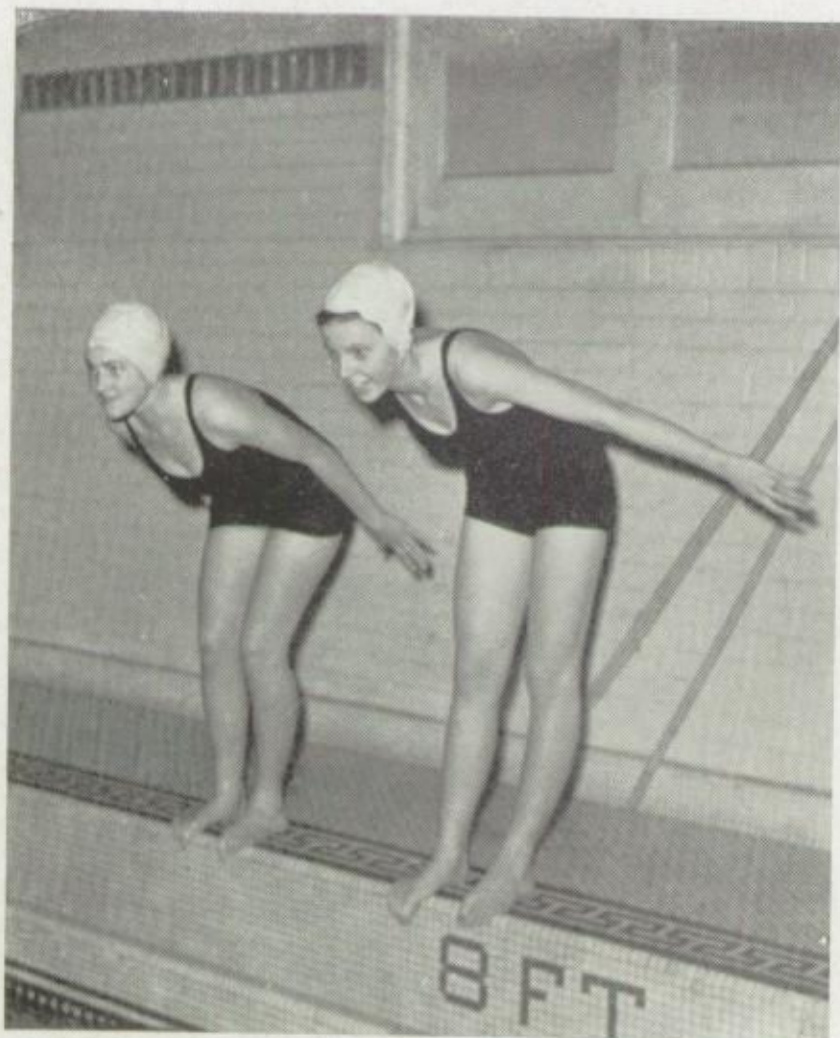

Desirous of learning how to make and apply a bandages in case of emergency, the members of East's First Aid Club have spent a profitable year and are prepared to take over at any kind of an accident. The girls have practiced among themselves and have had great fun seeing who could make the neatest and best bandages. They have also acquired a knowledge of artificial respiration and can apply it very successfully. In this time of war and destruction these efficient girls, though not nurses, can do much to aid their country and help to protect the lives of their fellow citizens. Thus they will always be thankful for the leisure hours spent in the First Aid Club.

Eyes of feminine 'aquaducks' center on Fae Endicott as she poises for a plunge.

Two grinning club members toeing the pools' edge are these, before diving in for a vigorous race.

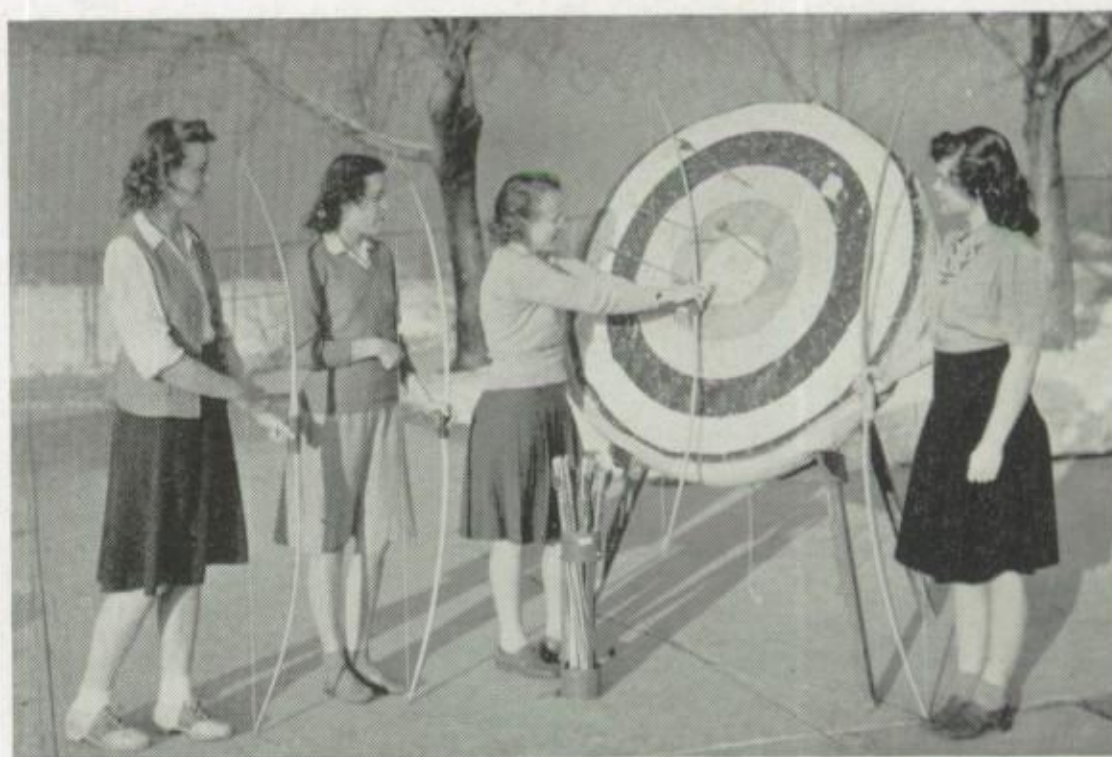

Every Monday night at the Y. W. C. A. you can find East's talented mermaids diving in the cool water and paddling around for a refreshing swim. The East High Swimming Club is organized in three classes to help the girls master the techniques of a good swimmer. The beginners class learned the dead man's float, lily float, swimming stroke and just how you take a breath while under water. As they advanced to the intermediate class the girls had races and learned to dive from the side of the pool. Still more advanced pupils in the highest class learned fancy diving and how to swim long distances. In the course of the year their swims were filled with thrills and scares—mostly thrills.

Swimming...

Archery...

Aiming as straight as the king of all archers, William Tell, or even Robin Hood himself, East High's archery club members have been hitting the old bulls-eye at regular intervals all year. Every Wednesday morning bright and early, East's archers could be found on our spacious athletic field or in winter, practicing in the Girls' Gym. Now as a successful school year comes to a close, their endless practice has brought them not only hours of fun, but it has brought to each and every one of the members, achievement and a never-ending enthusiasm for that age-old sport, archery.

Removing well-aimed arrows from the target are left to right: Afton Bradford, Bonnie Service, Mary Beth Wheeler, and Ellen Woolley, the club's officers.

Rifle...

Girls of the sixth period gym classes were allowed to organize a rifle club this year. These members of the fairer sex showed steady aim and frequently managed to hit the bulls-eye, much to the surprise of the supervising cadet officers. Again the outstanding success as it was last year, East's Rifle Club has instituted its way into the school for good. After donning slacks instead of usual gym suits, and though rifles were pretty heavy for some of the petite misses, under the careful supervision of Sergeant Anderson, the girls had a lot of fun and succeeded in showing the boys that they of the male sex aren't the only ones who can handle a gun properly.

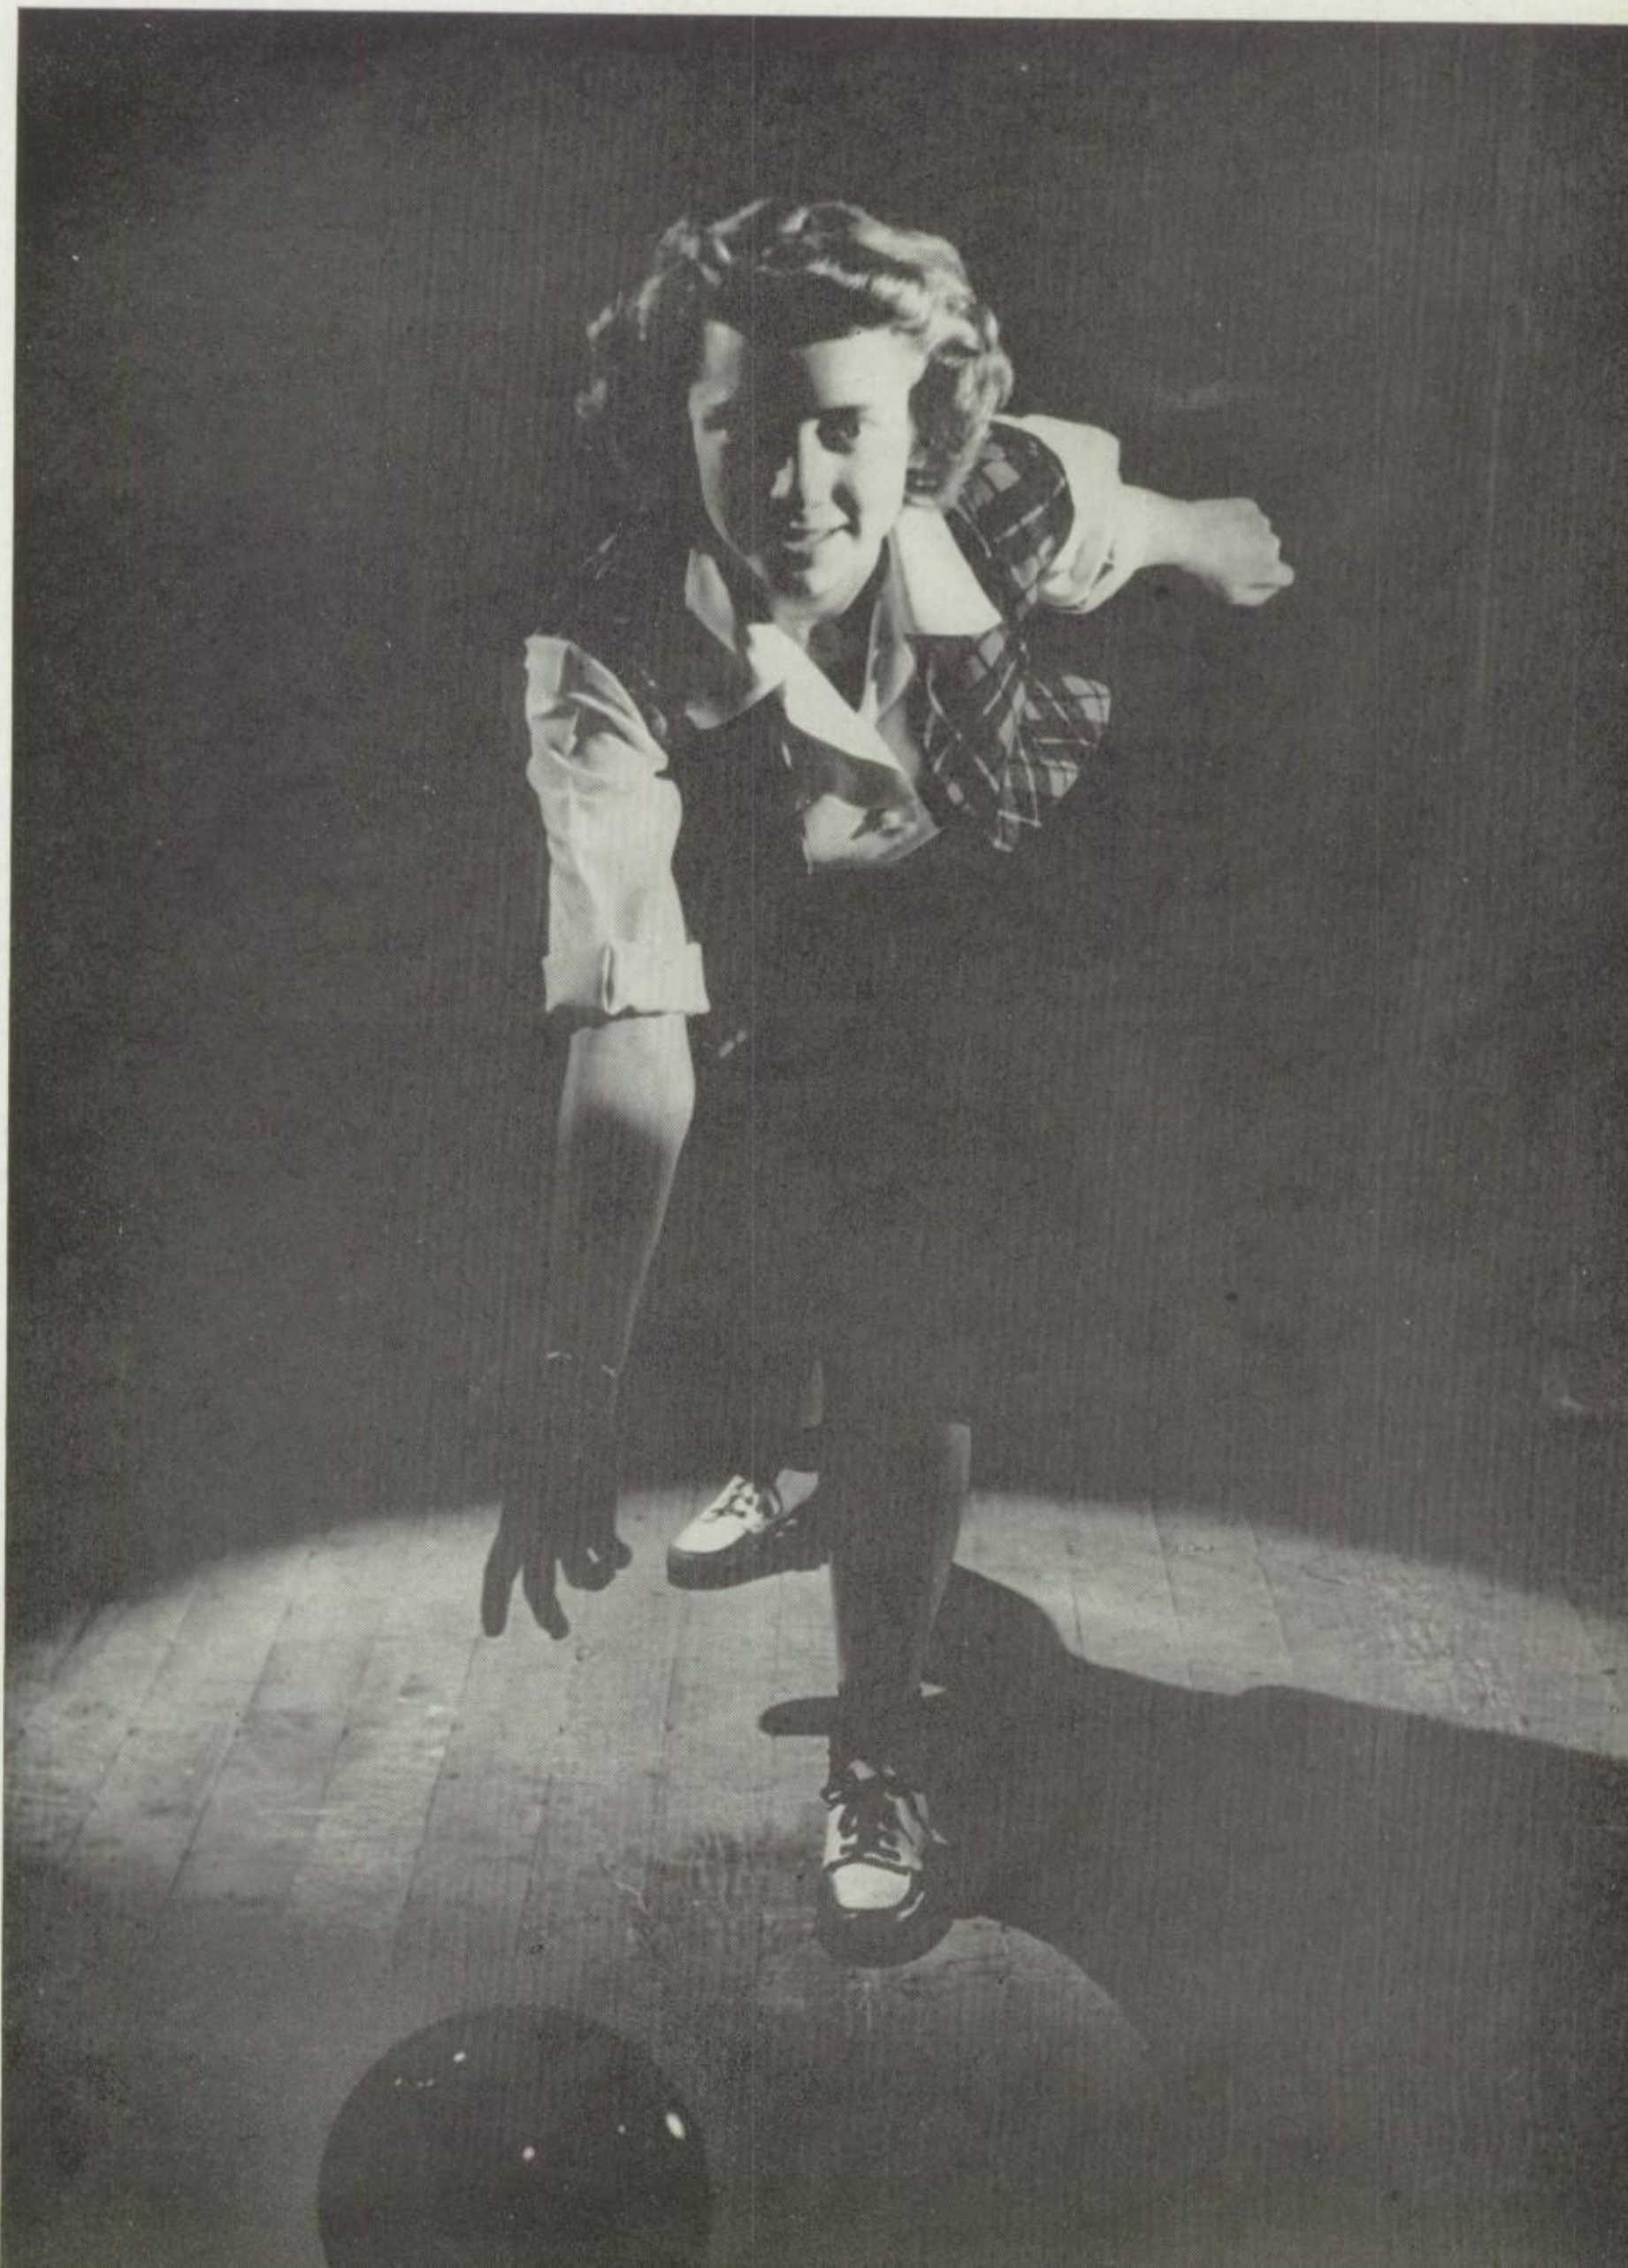

The club officers: Sargeant Anderson, Dona Stewart, Harry Lee, Homer Hale, Vernell Synon, Ellen Woolley, and Maurice Rose.

Art Club

To more thoroughly appreciate life, many students joined East High's Art Club. That they might share understanding and more fully develop their own talent, they studied the works of our great painters and sculptors. The climax of their year's activities was the "Springville art exhibit excursion."

But, the club was not only outstanding for its aesthetic endeavors, for it was the sponsor of many of the most sought events on the campus. Street dances, ghost shows, and many others aroused much outside interest. Because of their enthusiasm, loyalty, and willingness to cooperate, the members of this group were a great asset to East.

Outstanding for its novelty was the Art Club's street dance. A large crowd was in attendance.

Learning to put that ball "right down the old alley", the Bowling Club's members have spent many happy hours on Tuesday and Wednesday at the "Ritz" enthusiastically engaged in this popular sport. Big or small, dark or light—all set about to improve their game and to make this the biggest club in the school. Tournaments of all kinds have been sponsored by the club; many students achieving high scores and others, promising skill.

Lorna Gleave, outstanding as a feminine bowler, ponders over a difficult split.

Whether the huge balls knock over two or ten pins, the enthusiasts kept on trying, hoping that success would reward their tireless efforts. As the year comes to an end East's Bowling aces look back on the hours packed with fun while engaged in this captivating sport.

Beau Sabreur...

Cadet officers practice saber drills.

The Beau Sabreur comprises the nucleus of the officers of East's R. O. T. C. battalion. The main purpose of the club has been to promote a spirit of friendship and unity among the cadet officers. This was accomplished through several social gatherings held by the club members throughout the year.

In spite of world conditions, the French students, desiring to keep alive French traditions and customs, again held their annual Mardi Gras. Surrounded by a delightful atmosphere of gaiety, it was accented by beautifully costumed students, singing and laughing as only the light hearted French can. Originality ruled as judges witnessed the clever skits and lingered over the lovely floats, rewarding the outstanding. Refreshments in the form of punch, seasoned apples, and cream puffs proved to be a delightful repast and were served behind beautifully decorated booths. The 1942 Mardi Gras a credit to each and every person who put it over.

To give the students of the Spanish classes in the school an opportunity to become better acquainted with the customs of the Latin American countries, the annual fiesta is held after the celebration of the countries of Spanish derivation. The students bedecked in colorful shawls and sombreros, presented a program seldom equaled in reality. Featuring gay dances, hot chili, and a exciting "bull-fight", the evening was one long remembered by the participants.

Latin Club...

Enjoying a banquet held according to the etiquette standards of the "Early Romans", 80 Latin students congregated in the gaily decorated cafeteria for their outstanding social event of the year. The gladiatorial combats and chariot races provided the excitement, but like all other events the "eats" proved to be the highlight as students gorged themselves on pheasant, wine (imitation), and apples. Because no eating utensils were allowed, they did not have to watch their table manners.

Thespians...

Long regarded as the stronghold of the legitimate drama at East, these students have lived up to all previous traditions. Working purely for the love of the theater, they have diligently delved into the art of acting and the fascinating history of the footlights.

Ably sponsored by R. V. Howell and Foss Richards, the Khem club has endeavored this year to supplement the class study by seeing chemistry in action in the industrial world. Visiting nearby smelters, salt mills and sugar factories, they have gained a widening view of the practical application of the "atomic theory", and also to help them realize that not all chemists make "rotten egg gas".

The officers, Bill Rank, R. V. Howell, Foss Richards, Louise Cameron, and Kathryn Schilling closely examine chemical reagent shelves.

Khem...

Writers...

As East High's "gramatical gymnasts" these students set about to edit an A-1 literary magazine. Taking from its ranks the best in essays, poems, and short stories, they efficiently molded the manuscripts into a widely accepted booklet which well represented the best in student talent.

Home Economics...

This Club, composed of domestic science students have spent a year of learning the art of spot eradication and value of sewing seams. These students united with a common interest have worked with one thought in mind, "A way to a man's heart is through his stomach." The success of this club is due to each individual girl who has given her all toward making a year of happiness and accomplishment.

A. O. A.

Striving always to uphold the standards of East High School, these efficient hall supervisors have set for their motto, "All for One and One for All". Commonly known as the A. O. A. Club, they have dealt nobly with the task of keeping the halls quiet and free from the small minority of students who insist on roaming languidly about. Wholly a voluntary organization, receiving no compensation for their efforts, they have wholeheartedly devoted innumerable hours to protecting school property. The student body owes them a vote of "thanks" and recognizes them as an asset to East.

A'Cappella

Choir . . .

Known throughout the west, East's A'Capella choir has again enjoyed a banner year. Rendering a beautiful Christmas pageant with lovely carols, they brought the Christmas spirit into the hearts of all who heard them. Thrilling audiences of young and old alike, they have brought much fame and prestige to their Alma mater. Their beautiful music has helped many a person forget these trying times and carried them off into the realm of contentment.

4 J'S

Conceived to foster greater school spirit, these besweated girls have diligently practiced colorful routines. Their aim has been to stimulate interest and pep.

Youthful debaters from East's Debate Club showed their merit throughout the year by receiving excellent ratings at several tournaments participated in by students from all over the state. The Club itself has proved to be the channel through which these students have gained instruction and through which their interest has been stimulated. In spite of the fact that their Debate coaches, Mr. Valois Zarr, and Mr. C. Burke were inducted into military service, these future statesmen and politicians have worked wholeheartedly toward their club's outstanding achievements.

THE D.A.R. AND THE S.A.R.

STEPHENS MEDAL WINNERS

For over thirty years, the family of Frank B. Stephens has awarded gold medals to the junior students delivering outstanding speeches concerning some civic or national problem. This year Joan LaBarr and Sam Moll emerged victorious over a large field of students who made an attempt for the coveted awards.

The Concert Band

Assisted by the A'Cappella Choir, the orchestra presents its annual concert.

Under the capable leadership of Arthur Overlade, the members of East High's concert band have labored diligently to present for the enjoyment of the student body the best in symphonized music. Playing on several assemblies, preparing their own concert, and carrying the name of the school into other communities, they have been widely acclaimed. Their complete acceptance has partially repaid Director Overlade and members of the band for their diligent preparation and practice.

Stagehands

Although they seldom appear before audiences, these students have entrusted to them a responsibility as important as any that our most talented performers may have. Before the show they are always busy shifting scenery and lowering appropriate back-drops for a successful production.

Hard working staff members pause a moment for the benefit of the Eastonia photographer. Left to right: Mr. Black, Lorna Gleave, Margaret Mace, LaFawn Graff, John Morris.

Faced with the task of compiling students' names and addresses into a booklet for the convenience of the student body, Mace and Gleave steadily pounded the keys of the typewriters, Morris and Graff paced the streets searching out the needed financial support, and Mr. Black supplied the needed guidance to insure the success of the publication.

Pencilings

Editorship of East's literary magazine rested with Betty Jane Pratt, Kimball Romney, and Pat Hamilton.

The pencilings this year managed to acquire an allotment from the student fund toward a better and bigger publication. Budgeting this money wisely and exercising their grammatical talent, the staff succeeded in producing a self-styled magazine of aesthetic literature.

"L. D. S. Training Pays!"

It takes an ARMY of skilled workers to keep track of the nation's business. You can play your part better if you are thoroughly trained to give expert service.

Winter and summer, day and evening, the L. D. S. Business College offers intensive, practical training at low cost.

Write for our "Bulletin of Information."

"Bullseye" Teamwork

produces truly distinctive covers—neither "faddy" nor commonplace. This individuality, a characteristic of all "Bullseye" Covers, results from the perfect teamwork of an idea-minded yearbook staff with the technical skill of the experienced artists and craftsmen in our shop. A "Bullseye" cover "hits the mark" with every student on the campus.

With Thanks . . .

To a hard working staff whose cooperative effort has made the dream of this book a full realization, I wish to take this last opportunity to express my sincere appreciation. I am also indebted to the following business men whose faithful service and timely suggestions have added finesse to the final product—George M. Gill and Ed Lile of Lignell and Gill Studio, Ross Taggart of Debouzek Engraving Company, Kenneth Burton and Carl Erickson of Stevens and Wallis, and to John McPhee and Employees of the Western Printing Company.

Now I reluctantly close the last page of this 1942 Eastonia, hoping that it will always reflect the fond memories of East High.

DON ELLISON, Editor.
